

Whether you are planning to or has just joined the counselling profession, we welcome you to join us in our NEW Beginner Counsellors Group programme. It is designed to help you transit from being a counselling student to a counselling professional.

Many issues faced by new counsellors are quite unique and some find it useful to discuss these in a group setting to facilitate their growth and eventual integration into the big family of counselling professionals!

Dan Ng MSocSc RegCLR

Dan is an experienced professional counsellor and clinical supervisor. He has been a counsellor with the Ministry of Education, an international business school as well as private institutions. More recently, he devotes his clinical work in the healthcare sector.

Dan is passionate about counsellor-education and clinical supervision. Apart from his professional work as a counsellor, he also regularly supervises interns at UniSIM and ECTA-Swinburne Masters programmes. He came into counselling from a very different background and has gained many experiences in various sectors such as education, community, private and healthcare.
